THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

"Leaky Vessels"

Washington, June 22.—The acute problems that have followed the greatest of all wars plus inheritance of an unprecedentedly unsavory domestic mess largely due to the reckless extravagance, low-grade labor-union politics and general maladministration of the Roosevelt regime, have combined to create for President Truman situations that would tax the strength and strain the resources of a far bigger man than he.

HE HAS not done as well with them as he should. His veto of the Case bill was illogical and deplorable. Some of his major appointments have been decidedly second class, and it is not an adequate answer to say they are better than those whom they succeed. And his insistence upon his devotion to the "Roosevelt policies," so clearly responsible for the worst of our internal troubles, added to his efforts to placate the radical groups, so insultingly hostile to him personally, seems entirely political, stupid as well as unsound. Nevertheless, Mr. Truman, in a crisis, made a stand against labor arrogance in gratifying contrast to the encouraging attitude of his predecessor. The coarse denunciation of the Daily Worker and the professional union bosses that followed was a tribute to him.

WHATEVER may be said in criticism of the Truman Administration, there is a refreshing lack of malice about it. The essential decency of the President himself makes it easy to forgive his lesser mistakes and the weight of his burdens tends to create sympathy. Certainly, nothing he has done suggests malicious and persistent personal disparagement to which left-wing political and journalistic spokesmen are devoting themselves. And it is very tough luck, indeed, that in addition to his other troubles, Mr. Truman, apparently, should be afflicted with some exceedingly leaky vessels among his close aides and advisers.

THAT some of those upon whom he depends were "leaking" information or ideas to hostile writers has been manifest for months. It is difficult to conceive of anything more disturbing to a harassed executive or more unworthy in his supposedly loyal friends. The most recent example of this is in widely distributed articles appearing a few days ago in which a detailed account of an alleged White House conversation between the President and Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles was given. Mr. Bowles, it was stated, after conferring with the Messrs. Murray and Green, the labor bosses, had reached an agreement with them by which both strikes and prices were to be controlled.

INSTEAD of being delighted with this, when Mr. Bowles personally went to him with the plan, the President, it was stated, gave way to a "sharp attack of the pique he has long felt for Mr. Bowles" and "irritably" denounced the aforesaid leak. The Messrs. Murray and Green, the labor bosses, had come from "the highest sources" and on "authentic authority." Clearly, the only authentic information of a private conversation between the President and Mr. Bowles could come from the President or Mr. Bowles. Clearly, the disparaged President did not repeat the conversation and the natural inference from the articles is that the highly praised Mr. Bowles did.

NOW, perhaps, this does Mr. Bowles grave injustice. Perhaps, he never repeated the conversation he had with the President on this matter. Perhaps, there was no such conversation. Perhaps, there was no such agreement. Certainly, it seems rather a silly notion that the Messrs. Bowles, Murray and Green should think that prices could be kept down without wages being kept down, too. And if the Messrs. Murray and Green ever voluntarily agreed to the latter, they would both be out of their very soft jobs with great speed and completeness. It is difficult to read this article without inferring that, directly or indirectly, the information upon which it is based came from Mr. Bowles. This puts Mr. Bowles in a very bad position. If he did not supply the information—and one cannot believe that he did—then he owes it to himself, as well as Mr. Truman, to deny the correctness of these inevitable inferences and repudiate the compliments which the authors heap upon him.

CONCEDING that Mr. Bowles, either directly or indirectly, has not "leaked" to these writing gentlemen, so obviously hostile to his chief and so offensively partial to himself, one would think that he would be very indignant, indeed, about it. It is almost incredible that with his tastes, talents and training for publicity and his record as one of the most successful advertising men in the country that Mr. Bowles, with a conscience free of guilt, can sit mute under such an indictment as these articles frame against him. For they are by no means the first.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

The State Department made public its draft treaty under which the United States would share the control of Japan with Britain, the Soviet Union and China. The joint rule, through a four-power control commission, would have the purpose of keeping Japan disarmed. The treaty, which was proposed by Secretary of State Byrnes at the April meeting of the Foreign Ministers, would run for 25 years and could be renewed.

The United States was said to be ready to consider the creation of an international atomic control authority outside the United Nations if the Soviet Union should refuse to accept abolition of the veto power on atomic matters.

Children Present the Program for Grange

LANGHORNE, June 22.—Instead of discussing topics relating to the farm and home, the members of Middletown Grange, at their meeting in the community house, here, Wednesday evening, enjoyed a program presented entirely by the children under the leadership of Mrs. Charles D. Lowmes, who holds the office of Ceres in the Grange.

It has been the custom of the Grange to give the children an opportunity to present a program once a year.

The program opened with the singing of "America," following which piano solos were rendered by Diana Krusen and Dorothy Hibbs. The main feature was an original skit, "Housekeeping in 1900, 1940 and 1960." Taking part in this were William and Ann Lauble and Marie Kirk.

The program was brought to a conclusion with singing, and later the adults and children were served ice cream.

CHAS. LANDRETH AND WIFE ROBBED BY THUG

Young Man Enters Car in Phila.; Says He Wants "Ride in Country"

TAKES MORE THAN $30

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—(INS)—Charles H. Landreth and wife, of 100 Hilltop Road, Chestnut Hill, were robbed last night while en route to their home.

Landreth, vice-president of the D. Landreth Seed Co. Bristol, firm, was en route to his home after a late "movie" with his wife when a young man opened the rear door of his car and stepped in.

The youth told Landreth he wanted to "go for a ride in the country."

Landreth told police he continued driving toward his home, but that when the trio reached an isolated spot about half a mile from his home, the apparently unarmed intruder robbed the seed company executive of $30 and searched Mrs. Landreth's handbag.

Then, Landreth reported, the thug made the Chestnut Hill couple get out of the car. The holdup man wasn't able to get the vehicle running and asked Landreth to aid him.

Landreth did—the thief drove off—and the victims trudged the remaining block to their home.

JET PLANES AGAIN
Three of the four jet-propelled Army planes that left March Field, California, last week for a round trip to Andrews Field, Maryland, were back again at their starting point in 11 hours nine minutes flying time. Only one failed to complete the journey—and that was because the pilot accidentally dropped his wing tanks on his way east.

This flight offers further striking proof of the reliability as well as the terrific speed of these new aircraft. They averaged 446 miles an hour over a distance of 4,500 miles, and since they had a tail wind flying east and a head wind flying west the figure represents their normal cruising speed. They can fly faster if necessary. But the important point is that they can cover long distances at better than seven miles a minute and get to their destination.

One of the objects of this test was to get information on pilot fatigue under these conditions. The three pilots who completed the flight, according to news accounts, showed few signs of strain as a result of their hours in the air.

The fact that the Army is going ahead with its developmental work on jet-propelled planes is especially interesting in the light of the word that came recently from abroad. British designers and plane builders have decided, according to report, that the jet engine is the engine of the future. They intend to concentrate on it at the expense of the gasoline power plants now in use. It is heartening to have this indication that this country will not be left behind in the race.

STILL TIME FOR A GARDEN
With the food situation becoming increasingly acute, more persons will be influenced by the revelation that there is still time for a vegetable garden to produce satisfactory results. If weather conditions are normal, gardeners will have sufficient time for their gardens to produce. In fact, in some areas vegetables may be planted much later and still achieve good results.

Few garden vegetables require more than 100 days from the time the seed is planted until time to harvest the crops. Bush beans should be ready to pick in about 50 days, while some of the pole beans require 15 or 20 days longer. Also within this bracket are beets, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, corn, cucumbers, lettuce, peas, radishes, spinach, squash, Swiss chard, tomatoes and several other vegetables.

Some of these vegetables need only 25 or 30 days to produce. And extra care in weeding and watering will speed up production. Midsummer may not be as good a time to start a garden as spring, but if the weather is even reasonably favorable, a garden planted as late as July should help solve the food problem.

Byrnes has offered a billion-dollar loan to Russia if it will be reasonable. How to pretend reasonableness is Moscow's problem.

Fellow Faculty Members Fete Mrs. Edward Sabol

Mrs. Edward Sabol, the former Miss Frances Tomlinson, Race St., was given a surprise luncheon Friday, by her fellow teachers, the faculty of Clayton School, Chester.

Twenty places were arranged in the library room. At Mrs. Sabol's place there were a number of gifts wrapped in white paper with blue ribbon. Each gift was accompanied by a card bearing an amusing four-line poem relating to the contents. The gifts were small household articles, as the group had previously presented Mrs. Sabol with a wedding gift of an Irish linen banquet cloth with matching napkins.

Mrs. Sabol is enjoying a brief stay at her home, 350 Jackson street, before beginning classes at West Chester State Teachers' College on Monday.

Today's Quiet Moment

By The Rev. Woodrow W. Kern
Pastor
Trevose Methodist Church

May Thy peace, which passeth all understanding, O God, be a part of the very essence of our lives. We pray for a world of peace and understanding. May the sins of greed and jealousy and hatred which lead to war and destruction of lives be annihilated and wiped away. To that end, may the power, person, and purpose of Christ come into our lives. May we begin by being at peace ourselves with the living God. That peace reinforced by love will cast out all fear. Then may we be at peace with our families, our neighbors, and our world.

"Peace, perfect peace, by thronging duties pressed;
To do the will of Jesus, this is rest."

"Peace, perfect peace, our future all unknown;
Jesus we know, and He is on the throne."

Schneider and Hibbs Opened Ninth With Base Hits

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, June 22 — Rain failed to halt the game on the Bensalem school field last evening as the Langhorne Legion topped Badenhausen, 7-5, in a Suburban League contest.

Bearing down in the ninth inning with the tying runs on base enabled Bob Mitchell to get credit for the mound victory. To start the last half of the ninth, "Inky" Schneider and Leo Hibbs opened with base hits. But Bowman grounded out, and both Langhan and Balaz struck out to end the tilt.

RE-SCHEDULE GAMES DUE TO WEATHER

Two games of the Bristol Suburban League were called last evening. The Hibernians-Fleetwings game scheduled at Edgely was called early in the afternoon while St. Ann's and Rohm and Haas played two innings when the tilt was called. St. Ann's was leading, 3-0, when Umpire Morgan called the contest.

Several postponed games have been scheduled for next week. The Legion-Harriman tilt will be played Monday evening. On Wednesday evening, the same two teams will play while Langhorne travels to Schutte-Koerting. On Friday evening, Fleetwings meet Harriman on the high school field and the Legion plays Schutte-Koerting at Cornwells.

Arrangements are being made to play the Hibernians-St. Ann's postponed game next Sunday. The receipts of this contest, if arranged, will be given to an injured St. Ann's player.

PLAY DOUBLE-HEADER HERE TOMORROW

The Prison Guards-Voltz-TEXACO game scheduled for last evening on Leodown's field was called because of rain.

The Voltzmen play a double-header tomorrow afternoon, meeting the State Highway team in Trenton Industrial League games. First game will get under way at two o'clock.

Manager Mulholland has announced that "Danny" Keegan and "Benny" Sammel will be the hurlers in the twin-bill.

Williams Favored To Repeat Performance

Francis "Doc" Williams, local Edgington outboard driver who made a clean sweep of all Class 1 events last week to roll up a total of 89 points toward the season's high point purse of $1,000, is favored to repeat in the schedule of outboard races at the Neshaminy Aquadrome, State Road and Neshaminy Creek, Edgington, tomorrow.

Kensington driver-owner Ray Shilling, who had trouble getting his two entries to perform last week, says that his boats will be in running condition and states that he will drive one of the boats himself and put one of the Cox brothers, Bert or Elmer, of Ardmore, at the throttle of the other. Two drivers from the Southern circuit, Johnnie MacAdams, of Baltimore, Md., and Dean Worcester, of Silver Spring, Md., will give the Pennsylvania and New Jersey drivers plenty of trouble with their sixty-mile-an-hour Class 2 outboards. Byron Shannon, Audubon, N. J., who placed second in the semi-finals last week, is one of the favorites to win tomorrow's Class 2 events.

Time trials are scheduled for 1:00 p. m., with the opening events to be run at 3:00 p. m.
